Moose Buy Cedar Street Property For Club House

Kingston Lodge No. 970, Loyal Order of Moose, Purchase Burgher Residence on Cedar Street and Will Remodel it into Modern Club House.

Thursday evening Kingston Lodge, No. 970, Loyal Order of Moose, voted to purchase the Matthias Burgher residence at No. 26 Cedar street for a club house. The property is a two story and attic building located on a lot fifty feet front and 162 feet deep. Possession will be taken shortly of the property.

The lodge has been meeting in the Pythian Hall, Broadway and Thomas street, and has been considering the proposition of owning its own club house and meeting rooms for some time.

The Burgher property will be entirely remodeled and made into a modern and up-to-date club house with modern rooms. There will also be rooms for carrying on the social activities of the organization.

At the meeting Thursday evening the matter of purchasing the property was carefully gone into and the members decided that it was a good location for the organization as it was but a short distance off Broadway and convenient for the members of the lodge.

As soon as possession is taken of the property the work of altering it for lodge purposes will be started.

Both Bus Lines May Operate

Public Service Commission Grants Certificate to Jesse Van Kleeck and Schipp Auto Bus Line to Operate Busses Out of Kingston.

By Telegram to The Freeman.

Albany, Aug. 7.—Holding that the communities need transportation facilities, the Public Service Commission Thursday granted certificates to the Schipp Auto Bus Line Company, Inc., and Jesse Van Kleeck to operate bus lines out of Kingston, the Schipp line to High Falls and passing through Stone Ridge and Hurley and the Van Kleeck line to Ellenville and serving Napanoch, Wawarsing, Kerhonkson, Accord, Stone Ridge and Hurley.

Both lines are prohibited from carrying passengers from point to point in Kingston, and Van Kleeck can not pick up passengers between the junction of the Kingston-Ellenville highway and the road leading to High Falls and to the east line of Marletown.

Both bus lines are directed to require all bus operators to bring their busses to a dead stop at railroad crossings and to cross only when they see that there are no trains approaching.

The certificates were granted following hearings by Commissioner Van Nance, in this memorandum the commissioner states that the principal argument at the hearings was to whether the Van Kleeck line should be prohibited from carrying passengers between Stone Ridge and Kingston.

"Although I appreciate that it is not the general policy of the commission to grant certificates to competing lines, I believe that the facts presented justify the commission in authorizing the double operation. The Van Kleeck line has been given, modern and expensive busses have been purchased and all efforts made to offer a high class and convenient service to the people residing in this section. The community has come to rely upon this service and it would be unfortunate if anything were done that would necessitate such service being in any way curtailed. During the four years which this competition has been in effect both lines have prospered and have been financially successful."

Commissioner Van Nance says a legal question was raised by the town of Marletown's consent to Van Kleeck, but except as to prohibiting the carrying of local passengers in that town, he says he does not believe that this condition is binding upon the commission.

The Ontario & Western Railroad operates between Ellenville and Kingston, but it was not represented at the hearings. The commission holds that its service is not such as should prohibit the operation of either bus line.

A certificate under which Charles A. Schipp has been operating as an individual was revoked.

By Telegram to The Freeman.

London, Aug. 7.—Turkey came out the winner in the Mosul boundary dispute under the findings of the report issued today by the commission which completed an investigation of the controversy.

The commission also declared that it is not favorable to the partition of the disputed territory.

Capital Prepares For Klan Parade

Advance Guard Indicates That Large Crowd Will Participate—Capital Police Force and Reserves Will be Mobilized.

By Telegram to The Freeman.

Washington, Aug. 7.—Tomorrow they'll spell it with K, the national capital.

Dusty looking automobiles from as far west as Ohio, as far south as Georgia and as far north as New York, creaked into Washington today bringing the advance guard of the thousands who will participate in the first national convention and parade of the Ku Klux Klan.

The number of arrivals in automobiles seemed to belie the claim of Klan leaders that "not more than 5,000 or 6,000," will be present, inasmuch as most of the Klansmen and their families are expected to come tomorrow morning on the forty odd special trains.

The high light of the Konclave is expected to come at 3 o'clock tomorrow afternoon with the parade of Klansmen down Pennsylvania.

It will be one of the strangest parades that historic old Pennsylvania avenue, which has echoed to all sorts of processions, has ever witnessed.

Beneath the normal convention attitude of city officials toward the event, there is a distinct feeling of uneasiness and alarm.

"There may be trouble and there may not," apparently was their attitude. "Let's not take any chances."

The entire police force of the capital, with all reserves, will be mobilized along the line of march to prevent any "unlawful events." Troops of third cavalry at Fort Meyer and nearby marines have been notified to hold themselves in readiness for "emergencies."

The capital has one of the largest colored populations of any city in the country. Not many years ago it was the scene of a bloody race riot.

Last night, printed handbills made their appearance all over the city, inveighing against the Klan parade.

The Klansmen will march without masks and without the usual fiery crosses.

It was reported today that this concession on the part of the Klan is but the forerunner of a move to abolish the hood from the order entirely. Klan officers would not confirm it.

Leopold's Wager Now Completed

By Telegram to The Freeman.

Chicago, Aug. 7.—Nathan Leopold today had won his grim "parlay" wager with death.

More than a year ago, while a nation's attention was focused on "Babe" and his companion in his "crime for a thrill"—the slaying of little Bobby Franks—while the two dapper, college youths stood in the shadow of the gallows, Leopold proposed his bet to newspapermen who were gathered for their daily interview with the slayers in their cells here.

"Let's bet on whether or not I hang," he urged newspapermen.

"Tell you what I'll do. I'll parlay bet with you. We'll enter Bernard Grant, Russell Scott and I, none of us to hang."

That was a year ago, and at that time, the hempen noose dangled close to all three.

A short time later, Judge Caverly read his decision which sent Babe and Dicky Loeb to the state penitentiary at Joliet for "life and 30 years."

Time went on and while attorneys were fighting for a reprieve for Bernard Grant, convicted on participation in a tea store robbery in which Patrolman Ralph Souder was slain, the boy whose hair had turned gray as he waited in prison walls for execution, was attacked and slain in the jail audience room by his alleged companion in the crime.

And yesterday, a jury brought in a verdict that Scott, condemned slayer of Joseph Maurer, Loeb drug store clerk, was "insane."

Babe's last "horse" had gone over.

Chelsea Was a City of Booze

According to Federal Agents Who Claimed They Unearthed Greatest Liquor Conspiracy—Mayor and Seven Policemen Said to Have Directed "Union."

By Telegram to The Freeman.

Boston, Mass., Aug. 7.—United States marshals, who visited Chelsea with warrants for the 68 men and women indicted in the alleged bootleggers union conspiracy, reported today that at least twelve of the defendants were missing.

Those who were found were ordered to report to the Federal building today for arraignment.

Mayor Lawrence P. Quigley, charged with being the "king" of the gigantic liquor conspiracy which involves seven members of the police department, declared his innocence. The indictments were the result of the "testimony of an arch criminal," Quigley asserted.

Search for the missing was begun at once by the United States marshal's office.

Members of the Chelsea police department indicted stayed on their jobs today at the request of the mayor. "I am confident of the innocence of these others," declared Mayor Quigley.

Department of justice agents said today that they uncovered in Chelsea the most amazing liquor conspiracy unearthed since prohibition. Here, in brief, is what they found:

Mayor Quigley and his brother Thomas, a police inspector, "ring leaders of the bootleggers' union."

Ernest "Dutch" Henry and Edward Carlson, collecting from $100 to $10 a week from members of the union, the money used for police protection and otherwise.

Steamships and sailing vessels bringing liquor to the Chelsea docks.

Plants manufacturing liquor in the city. Young men with capital urged to select locations for manufacture and sale of booze.

Jailing of those who attempted to give battle to the "rum-rings" as detected from city hall.

Members of the "union" double crossing each other by hijacking and police looting their badges to the hijackers. Police doing some of the hijacking themselves.

An auto theft ring which procured stolen cars with which members of the ring ran liquor from rum runners who brought smuggled goods ashore at Winthrop and Revere.

A night life in Chelsea cafes, rivaling the old time Bowery of New York. Cafes, bar rooms, night clubs, kitchen bars and street bootleggers operating under police protection.

Prohibition agents spotted and their movements reported to city hall.

The informer to which Mayor Quigley referred is Percy Friedman, a former Chelsea taxi driver, now serving a term in Charlestown State prison for automobile thefts. Wearing his prison garb, Friedman was brought to the Federal building to testify before the grand jury.

Death threats figured in the unearthing of the alleged conspiracy. United States Assistant District Attorney Elihu D. Stone was threatened. United States District Attorney Harold P. Williams was warned to "keep off."

Mayor Quigley who is serving his fourth term was the man who kept the last Democratic National Convention in an uproar an hour by challenging votes on the Ku Klux Klan resolution.

Wiswall for Convention Nominations

Albany Senator Tells Ulster County Republican Convention Delegates That He Believes Their Way is the Right One—Tribute to Philip Elting.

The Republican county convention, was held at the Kingston Opera House today for the purpose of recommending candidates for nomination for county offices and party places who will be voted for at the September primary election.

The convention was called to order at noon by County Chairman Philip Elting and the convention call was read by Secretary John W. Eckert, who also called the roll as made up from reports sent in by officials of the recent election district caucuses. The full representation of three delegates was present from each election district of the county except the Seventh district of Wawarsing, where a caucus contest was waged so hotly that no delegates were elected.

The temporary roll of the convention was thereupon made the permanent roll.

Senator Wiswall Speaks.

State Senator Wiswall of Albany, law partner of former Senator Charles W. Walton of this city, was introduced by Chairman Elting and spoke briefly.

Senator Wiswall said he had come to Kingston to argue a law case in the supreme court and had no intention that he would be called on to make a political speech. He considered it a privilege to speak before a Republican convention, and every Republican always felt a thrill about attending a convention.

"I believe in the convention system," said Senator Wiswall. "It is the only right and proper method to choose candidates for office as well as officials of political parties. Nobody can successfully contend that benefit accrues to a party by a political fight outside the convention hall."

"A political party is like a big family and the place to settle family disputes is in the home and then go before the public a happy and united family. Some families never can agree and it is nauseating to hear them air their family affairs on the street corners. It is the same way with a political party, which rapidly loses caste when it keeps fighting in public and never tries to settle its troubles among its own members."

"I am glad to be here for this is probably the only Republican county convention held in New York state, and I want to pay a tribute to your county leader who has stood for what he believes is right and what other people also believe is right— and who does not give way to loud clamor from unthinking people. It is he who has preserved the convention system to you."

"The political party takes the responsibility when it names a candidate for office. If the candidate does not turn out right, the party is blamed. If he does turn out right, the party should receive credit."

"Every Republican in New York state is proud that Philip Elting is collector of the port of New York. The name Philip Elting spells honest dealing, and it is a credit to the party, to the Federal government and to the citizens of the state to have had chosen for that office a man of such strict integrity. His ability is recognized throughout the state and Ulster county is coming into glorious recognition for its consistent majorities for Republican candidates."

"Whatever differences you may have, if you have any, I hope they will be forgotten when you leave this hall, and that you will present a united front at the polls against your enemy, the Democratic party." (Applause.)

George Van Eiten Heard From

On the call of districts for the selection of county committee members to be voted for at the September primary, George Van Eiten of Monticello nominated himself and Mrs. Margaret J. Tiller as committeemen of the First Hurley district in place of Mrs. Tiller and Fred Saxe, who had been selected by his associate delegates.

"Mr. Saxe has been committed man twenty years and thinks he has a kindly right to it," said Mr. Van Eiten. "I object, and as I am a delegate I have a right to nominate myself, and I do so."

On a standing vote, the Saxe-Tiller ticket defeated the Van Eiten-Tiller ticket by a vote of 75 to 25.

Cunningham Stakes Issue

"That vote raises an issue which this convention ought to meet now," said Judge Cunningham of Ellenville when the vote had been announced. "The Republican party stands for autonomy, and the county convention ought not to decide for a district who shall be county committeemen and the vote of a majority of the delegates of that district."

"The convention has not done so," said Chairman Elting.

"I know it hasn't," said Judge Cunningham, "but we established a precedent that might be dangerous in the future, and I move that the choice of a majority of delegates of the district shall be binding on that district in the selection of committeemen and the convention shall not have power to override the delegates."

"The suggestion is a wise one and I think it should be adopted by the new county committee when it meets and adopts rules," said Chairman Elting. "But this convention cannot."

East Kingston Man Shot by New York Crook

Detective Henneberry of Truck Squad, Dangerously Wounded Cornering Gunman, While Mother of Four Children, Was Slain Thursday.

Mrs. Marie Connolly, the mother of four children, was shot dead in the doorway of her home at 433 West Thirty-fourth street, New York city, Thursday during a pistol battle between police and gunman. Richard M. Henneberry, a former resident of East Kingston, a detective of the Truck Squad in New York, was dangerously wounded at the same time. Henneberry is in the Roosevelt Hospital with a bullet wound below his heart. Henneberry is thirty years old and has been a member of the New York police department since 1918, when he received his appointment as a probationer.

Henneberry and Thomas Maroney, a police chauffeur, were driving in a police department car on Tenth avenue Thursday afternoon when Henneberry saw an automobile which answered the description of one stolen in July from Dr. Harry S. Rikoff of Brooklyn. Both Henneberry and Maroney were in plain clothes.

The suspected car, carrying four passengers, was trailed into Thirty-fourth street. Maroney crowded the machine into the curb and Henneberry showed his shield and ordered the men to stop. They left the car hastily, drew pistols and began the fight.

The street was crowded with children and traffic and the police were at a disadvantage since they held their fire as far as possible in order to avoid hitting an innocent victim. The fugitives fled without ceasing as they ran and in the chase a bullet found Henneberry's body, and crying "They got me," he fell to the pavement.

The noise of the conflict drew other police to the scene. One of the fugitives attempted to enter the Connolly house just as Mrs. Connolly was leaving it. The gunman ducked behind the door as Mrs. Connolly stepped from the hall into the doorway and the policeman's bullet intended for the fugitive struck her in the chest.

Of the four gunmen two were captured and the other two got away. The captured two were later identified by Henneberry when they were brought before him at the hospital.

The dead woman was 35 years old, the wife of Charles F. Connolly, a baseball catcher known as "Cy" Connolly.

Henneberry has been six months with the Truck Squad and lives at 246 West 106th street. He is engaged to be married and the ceremony was to have taken place this month. His condition is critical.

BRYAN FAILED TO NAME EXECUTORS

By Telegram to The Freeman.

Miami, Fla., Aug. 7.—Filing of the last will and testament of William Jennings Bryan for probate is being held up by a curious oversight of the great Commoner in failing to name the executors.

This became known when members of the Bryan family today prepared to ask the probate court to remedy the oversight. No member of the Bryan family can issue checks against the Commoner's bank account until the omission has been rectified.

It is thought likely that the probate court may name Mrs. Bryan administratrix of the will. Meanwhile, the terms of the testament are a closely guarded secret.

TYPICALLY AMERICAN.

His disposition of a substantial part of his surplus millions shows William James Connors to be a self-made man of the old, consistent American type. The Buffalo industrial magnate fought his way up from the lowly beginning as newsboy and dock laborer. After rising to the position of newspaper proprietor, he bought up and operated lines of passenger steamers and freighters on the Great Lakes. Later he bought and reclaimed 7,000 acres of the Everglades, a tract now prosperously cultivated in sugar-cane and fruit. Securing a great future in Florida real estate, he did not hesitate to build a railroad through the swamps around Lake Okechobee. Meanwhile he was known for his ready wit, robust common sense and shrewd strokes of business, as well as for his mannerism, his "rude ways" and his "lapses in grammar."

And now that a great fortune is at his command, does he follow the example of too many of our newly-enriched and buy for an ambitious daughter a foreign husband with a real or doubtful title? There has been no news of this sort, but instead we read that he is interested in philanthropy of a practical sort. In connection with the Foundation he has just established he is quoted: "I have decided that the best charity is one that will give help to the needy; give it promptly, without red tape and without any regard to race, religion or anything but need." He speaks from the knowledge he early acquired among the poor and struggling, who more readily extend the helping hand to each other than is commonly supposed by the prosperous. It is a fine and truly American spectacle—this sympathetic looking back by Mr. Connors to his old companions in poverty instead of seeking to buy his family's way into aristocratic foreign society.

TROUBLE IN THE VIRGINS.

A commission has arrived from the Virgin Islands to explain to the officials at Washington how American colonial administration has brought hard times upon them. We began governing the Virgin Islanders in 1918 after buying their sea-washed territory from Denmark for the sum of $25,000,000 as part of our policy of dominating the West Indies and Caribbean Sea in connection with our ownership of the Panama Canal. The Islanders had no great complaint against Denmark, but they welcomed American control because they thought it would bring them greatly increased prosperity. Now, it is stated, they would vote overwhelmingly for the return of the Danish flag.

Instead of bringing the Islanders greater prosperity, we have given them prohibition, which has "smashed the only major industry of the islands—the bay-rum industry, with an annual export of 60,000 gallons; for it is now decreed by Congress that no bay rum may be imported to this country lest Americans should drink tonic intended for each other's hair." We have also given the Islanders seven governors within three years, each more interested in seems, in introducing American customs than in promoting prosperity.

ART AND MORALS.

O'Neill's "Desire Under the Elms," which was acquitted of the charge of indecency in New York and permitted to continue its run, has been forbidden on the English stage by the Lord Chamberlain, official censor of plays, on the ground that it is "abhorrent."

Many Americans who have seen it will agree that it is precisely that, but his friends say it is "art" and possibly it is both. If we can stand Greek tragedy, its friends contend, why can't we stand an echo of Greek tragedy in the New England countryside? The answer is similar to the answer to the protest against the ban on the circulation of a certain "sex" novel through the mails. There is a marked difference in effect due to remoteness of time and place. Indecency in the old classics is not so intolerable as indecency in the modern. In the 19th century, even Rabelais, who is described as an old-time example of their kind, but when similar scenes and placings are brought next door in modern America the overwhelming urge with most of us is to turn away in disgust.

There was no dearth of enthusiastic "dollar a year" men during the war, but General Andrews has failed to find one willing to become prohibition regional director without a salary.

That Body of Yours

A LIFE SAVED.

When we read nowadays of the methods of treatment of conditions, that in former days carried off thousands of people, we do not wonder that our research men are working night and day on the problems that mean health, and life itself, to suffering humanity.

It is not so long ago that tuberculosis, yellow fever, diphtheria, diabetes and other ailments were carrying off thousands and hundreds of thousands yearly.

And now a simple thing like the swallowing of a few young children

Some of us have seen, all of us know where innocent children have been lost, due to this terrible chemical which caused suffocation, perforation, or perhaps pneumonia. The percentage of deaths was high.

So when we read of the simple method of a European physician we simply wonder why it was never thought of before. This physician reports a series of 226 cases of which 214 were cured, or over 95 per cent, by the following treatment. The stomach is washed out with water and a fluid diet is given after the second or third day the stomach tube, filled with fine shot, is put down the throat as far as the stomach, and left there for a few minutes. The next day it is left in for a few minutes longer, and at the end of six days is left in place for a full half hour.

The patient is given soft food in the second week, and ordinary food in the third. After a few days, the swallowing causes no pain whatever.

Now how very simple this seems to us. Just putting a rubber tube filled with shot down the throat to the stomach, which thus keeps the walls of the food canal from getting closed together by the action of the lye. It is this terrible contracting or closing action of the lye, that has cost the lives of so many children in the past, by actually closing up this canal completely. This physician, quite naturally calls attention to the tremendous saving of lives by this method, and compares its success with the results obtained by the old method of simply waiting to see if the food canal would remain open itself sufficiently, to allow nourishment to be given to the child. It is certainly a great step forward.

Taboo Drug Store Lights for Autos

Various Associations Unite for Abolishing Red and Green Lights on Front of Vehicles and Promoting Uniform Usage in Traffic Signal Colors.

Drug store lights on highway vehicles will be abolished if the recommendations in a revised code of highway traffic signals are adopted. The code for standardized colors and forms for road and vehicle signals has been drawn up by a committee sponsored by the American Association of State Highway Officials, the National Safety Council and the Bureau of Standards and organized under the procedure of the American Engineering Standards Committee.

The purpose is to promote uniform usage as regards traffic signal colors and methods to reduce the likelihood of accidents, and the proposed code is intended to regulate the use of lighted and unlighted, moving and flashing road signals, and lights, and semaphores, and other signaling devices on vehicles.

It specifies that headlights shall be white, amber, yellow or any intermediate hue and that no red or green lights that will be visible from directly in front shall be displayed on any vehicle. Red is recommended for tail lights because of its universal use but if a change is made in any jurisdiction, yellow is recommended. Yellow is also approved for signal lights on automobiles, red and green being ruled out for this purpose. Yellow marker lights, visible from both front and rear, are specified, to be placed in the upper left corner to indicate the size of the vehicle body and load.

There are also definite specifications for the position, color and operation of highway semaphores and worded and illuminated signals at highway and railroad crossings. The code includes a chart of thirteen recommended signs for road turns, intersections, underpass and grade railroad crossings. Colors recommended for their significance are: Red, to indicate stop and for other purposes where required by law; yellow, to indicate caution, and green, to indicate to proceed.

Today We Celebrate

GIOVANNA MARMOCCHINI CORTESI.

Giovanna Marmocchini Cortesi was a celebrated Florentine artist, who was born in 1670. One of her instructors was the famous Livio Mecius, another being Pietro Dandini. By order of the grand duchess, however, she was afterwards taught to paint in miniature by Hippolyto Galantini. In that style she became very eminent for her coloring, drawing and the striking likenesses she produced. She usually worked in oil, but also worked equally well in crayons. She died in 1736.

FASTING.

The first fast of long duration undertaken for scientific purposes, and with the possibility of imposture eliminated, was completed 45 years ago by Dr. Tanner of New York, who went wholly without food of any kind for forty days, from noon of June 29, to noon of August 7, 1880.

During that period there is satisfactory evidence that Dr. Tanner ate no food. He drank very little water and no other liquid whatever. His weight at the beginning of his fast was 157 pounds and at its conclusion, 121 pounds, showing a loss of 36 pounds, or almost a pound per day. He consumed meat and fruit in liberal quantities at the end, showing that the old theory of this being dangerous was not true—at least not in his case.

BRYAN PEACE TREATIES.

The first of the so-called Bryan Peace Treaties, that between the United States and Salvador, was signed twelve years ago today, August 7, 1913. Before the close of that year similar treaties were entered into with Guatemala, Panama, Honduras, Nicaragua, and the Netherlands. In 1914, Secretary of State Bryan negotiated treaties with Bolivia, Portugal, Persia, Denmark, Switzerland, Costa Rica, Dominican Republic, Venezuela, Italy, Norway, Peru, Uruguay, Argentina, Brazil, Chile, Paraguay and other states, and also with Great Britain, France, Spain and China. About thirty nations concluded the peace treaties with Uncle Sam, but Germany, Austria and Turkey did not accept the preferred peace pact. In fact the "Victor of Dayton" concluded more peace treaties for Uncle Sam than any previous secretary—and if they all "hold tight" we won't have so much cause to worry, which is a good thing, too, according to some well-informed persons. Having scrapped our navy to oblige John Bull and his little friend Japan, in the Washington Peace Conference, we cannot afford to be too touchy—and we need plenty of "treaty treatment."

Accessories That Are in Limelight

Shoes, Hats, Gloves, Hosiery, Necklaces, Bags, Play Important Part

The most beautiful costume and the smartest hat will not achieve the desired chic if the correct and appropriate note is lacking in accessories. Never before have these been so important and never has it been so essential that in every detail the costume should harmonize.

To a considerable extent the vogue of the ensemble is responsible for this harmonious effect, which must be perfect if it is to have any fashion value. Hats, shoes, stockings, gloves, even the scarf and handkerchief—to say nothing of the boutonniere which is a part of every costume—must carry out the same color or be in a tone that blends or harmonizes perfectly.

Much more attention is paid to the "little things" of dress, and the woman of fashion realizes that it is often a fatal error to select even the most trivial accessory without due regard to its place in the sartorial picture.

The simpler style of shoes predominates and these attain the maximum of chic with the minimum of decoration. The modified opera pump and the shoe with inconspicuous straps and in combinations of two kinds of leather are popular. Tan lizard skin is used

A Smart Neckline is Achieved by a Standing Collar Fastening at the Sides.

Designers have been very adroit in bringing about an acceptance, even a craving for high collars. Bows at the neckline are not necessarily at the front, either, and many frocks, both simple and formal, have a long-ended bow, either front, back or side. This goes a long way in reconciling us to the choker collar. Turtle necklines are liked in sweaters and in crepe jumpers bordered with knitted silk.

Among the lessons a sojourn at Deauville taught, was that all shades of blue were sponsored by smart women, not only for evening but for sports wear. Hyacinth blue is one of the several shades reported from abroad, perched another, but blues run the gamut, and are popular in much deeper tones, bordering on royal.

Knee-Length Tunic of Crepe Chiffon, or Voile

A knee-length tunic of crepe chiffon, or voile, beaded, embroidered, or trimmed constitutes the major part of a costume that serves for many occasions. Over a slip of satin, black, or any color that will make a suitable combination, it may be worn for daytime, luncheon or tea, or for informal evening restaurant dinner and the play. The beauty of this tunic is that it offers an always-ready emergency costume. Some of the more elaborate, or at any rate the more expensive, tunics are vividly suggestive of the overgarment of the Chinese coolie, though it oftenest is built of a piece of the broadest silk or satin. Fancy has rather run riot in some of the tunics that will meet the demand for a striking yet informal outfit. The most chic among the new blouse styles is the plique waistcoat-bouise. It is a summery, smart effect, a fitted waistcoat front, tailored collar, revers, little pockets and all that, with a blouse back and long sleeves. It is very stylish with the regulation tail, and is to be had in not only white but in all the new fashionable shades—yellow, green, blue, rose, beige and gray.

Frill-front is the picturesque name which describes the newest and highest thing in hosiery. Stockings of summer texture have a narrow drop-stitch stripe, and are shown to match underwear of the same weave and in many pretty delicate shades.

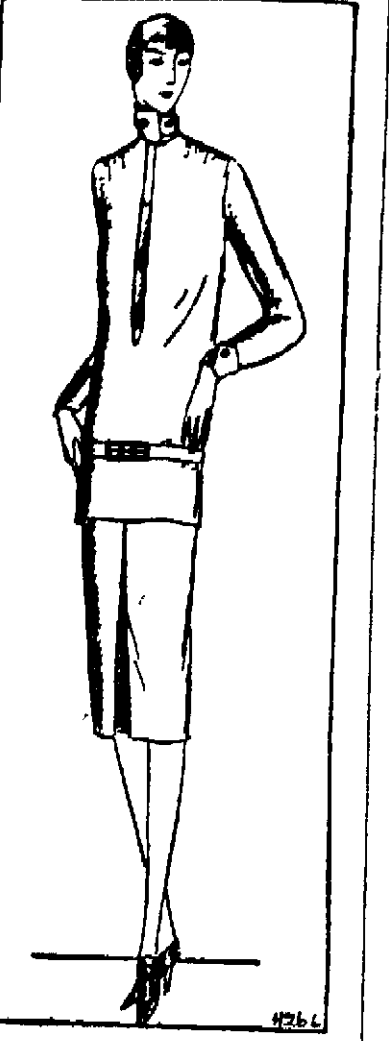

Good Manners

To enter the home of another person and to disturb its orderly arrangement by the careless placing of wraps or parcels is thoughtless selfishness. It is in much better taste to be unobtrusive even if we are sure of our welcome.

French Resorts Still Accent the Jumper Frock and Focus Attention on Blue.

With summer on the wane, one might expect a slackening of interest in sports clothes and an urge for more formal attire. There are certainly many formal types from which to choose, but these have a more limited sphere.

The jumper dress in crepe is replaced by the jumper in jersey tweed or flannel—in velvet, too; and in combinations which usually include a wool slip-on top, the main feature of which is not infrequently its neckline.

Huge Public Barometer

One of the largest public barometers in existence is to be found on the tower of the German museum at Munich. This particular barometer is also said to be the only one of its kind in existence. It shows the weather conditions for the city of Munich very accurately. The figures on the dial show the height of the mercury in centimeters: 71 is the average height of Munich, so that a swing to the right of this figure indicates fair weather, to the left bad times ahead.
The hand on the tower is connected electrically to an ordinary spring barometer, which is located elsewhere in the building and whose slightest movement is automatically followed by the tower hand. The dial is more than 14 feet in diameter and the gilded and weighs nearly a hundred pounds.

Dempsey Signs To Meet Wills

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Los Angeles, Aug. 7.—Jack Dempsey today had his signature on a contract to defend his heavyweight title against Harry Wills in Michigan City, near Chicago next year.

He signed to box the negro challenger after a long talk with Floyd Fitzsimmons, Michigan City promoter, and Fitzsimmons left today for New York to meet Paddy Mullins, manager of Wills.

Mullins wired the promoter he would sign a contract if Dempsey signed first.

The date of the bout was agreed upon at any time between July and September 1926.

The guarantee to the champion was not made public, but it was understood to be the same amount that Rickard had offered.

"If Rickard wants to tell how much he offered he may do so," said Dempsey. Fitzsimmons is giving me the same amount."

The champion said Jack Kearns, his estranged manager, could make no trouble for him or stop carrying out of the bout.

Wilbert Robinson The 'Miracle Man'

Brooklyn Manager Transfers a Pack of Discards Into Team of Stars and Earns Title of "Miracle Man."

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

New York, Aug. 7.—Perhaps it is really true that one cannot get blood out of a turnip or raise a crop of pumpkins on an egg. The writer might even string along with the general belief that one cannot get something out of nothing, if it were not for Wilbert Robinson, of the Brooklyn Dodgers.

He is the old-clothes man of major-league baseball, the gent who rings your doorbell, takes what you don't want and leaves you nursing $1.05 and the suspicion that you have been hornswoggled (a four-bit word meaning shortchanged). He is baseball's newest "miracle man."

Reclaims Failures.
Barring Zach Wheat, perennial Dodger, the stars of the Brooklyn outfit are Dazzy Vance, Jacques Fournier, Milton Stock, Burleigh Grimes, Eddie Brown and Tiny Osborne. All were reclaimed from the garbage so to speak.

Vance, probably the greatest pitcher in baseball was with the Yankees for several seasons and was so wild he couldn't hit Lookout Mountain with a sixteen-pound shot. He can throw them through the eye of a needle today.

Fournier was to have been waived out of the majors via the Cardinals and Yankees several years ago, but Robbie needed a hitting first baseman. He got one. Fournier is a heavier and more consistent hitter now than at any time during his rather lengthy career.

Stock hitting .100.
Stock also came from the Cardinals, with whom he had over-stayed his welcome. He fell into a hitting slump in 1924, but this year he has hit well up around .400 and is playing a fine game at second base.

Grimes was not exactly a major-league discard, but the fact remains that the Pirates thought so little of him they included him in a deal that sent Curshaw and Stengel to Pittsburgh. Neither of the latter is now in a big league, while Grimes is regarded as one of the best right-handers in the National League, in spite of his rather inept performances this year.

Brown was with the Giants for several seasons, but McGraw lost interest in him when convinced that the young man was afflicted with an incurable arm. He joined the Dodgers in midseason last year, and his hitting and fielding had much to do with the fact that the club ran one-two. Johnny Mitchell, an ex-Yank was about to be let out by the Red Sox at this time, and he, also, lent invaluable aid to the Dodgers at shortstop, although since something of a bust.

Osborne Valuable.
Osborne, a failure in Chicago, was picked up by Robinson. Just about the time everyone was convinced that Osborne didn't belong, he started pitching sensationally and twice beat the Giants in important series. He is the third man of the staff now.

His experience proved more or less of a parallel to the case of Bill Doak last year. Doak was sent away from St. Louis as a failure, but turned in nine straight victories for Robbie at the tag end of the 1924 season. He might be at it yet if it wasn't for the fact that he struck it rich in Florida real estate and declined a $15,000 contract, which probably was almost 2 times as much as Doak ever got as a star in St. Louis.

Ford Improves.
The successive failures of Mitchell and Johnston this year left Brooklyn without a shortstop, therefore, Robbie reached over to Philadelphia and acquired Horace Ford at the waiver price of $4,000. Ford never showed within 50 per cent of the ability he has uncovered in Brooklyn since the deal was made.

The writer notes that $25,000 and two pitchers recently were given the Minneapolis club for pitcher Bob McGraw. The latter perhaps is best known for his now famous remark, made after being with the Yankees for several seasons:

"I've been on the bench so long I could sit on a razor blade and be comfortable."

He, in brief, is another major-league discard and, as such, should be nothing short of a stamper in Brooklyn.

Tagging Major League Bases

Benton stopped the Cards after they had won four straight, the Braves hitting them with abandon in the fourth and fifth. Score 6 to 4. The Phils were shut out for eight innings but climbed aboard Jones in the ninth for three runs and beat the Cubs, 3 to 1.

Rally around the flag boys, the Senators moved up to within a single game of the Athletics by beating the Browns 5 to 4 and 10 to 3.

The hitting of Gehrig proved too much for Wells and the Tigers and the Yanks made it three straight, 10 to 4.

Luque weaved his customary spell over the Giant hitters while the Reds became familiar with Bentley's left hand at an early moment and won, 9 to 1. It was the Giants fourth straight defeat.

Vance was just another pitcher to the Pirates who raced the speed ball king at opportune moments and beat the Dodgers 5 to 1.

The Athletics finished second to the Indians in the first 9 to 6 but finished first to the Indians in the second, 6 to 1 Walberg outpitching Miller.

Blankenship blanked the blink-ing Red Sox while the White Sox socked Zahnizer and won 10 to 0.

World's Brightest Light

A short time ago the most powerful light source in the world was lit for the first time. It is intended to light the way from Algonk to Paris, and is built 7,847 feet above sea level, on the plateau known as Mont Ache, a few miles from Dijon.

Flashing at intervals of five seconds, the rays of the $74,000,000 candle-power light will be visible within a radius of 100 to 125 miles in foggy weather.

Reds Making A Great Stand

(By Davis J. Walsh.)

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

New York, Aug. 7.—Without a great deal of megaphoning about the thing, the Cincinnati Reds have come up from the surreptitious rear during the last two weeks and are now a definite factor in the National League race. This morning finds them only 3½ games behind the Giants and six in the Pirates' rear and, judging by the way the three of them have been going of late, anything can happen before October 1.

During the latter part of July and the first week of August, neither the Pirates nor Giants showed much beyond second division baseball. They played closer to .500 than the law of comfort and convenience allows while the Reds travelled at a .750 pace for the corresponding period.

As a result, the National League campaign virtually has become a three-team race.

However, in saying that anything may happen, the writer is fully aware of the probability that nothing will, as far as the Reds are concerned. They are having their little spree, just as they did earlier in the season, but they are in a position of a man walking a tight rope with a basket of eggs on his head.

They cannot afford to pause, hesitate, cease or otherwise falter on their journey to the wire.

To be exact, the Reds must win upward of 40 games of their remaining 54 to become a pennant winner. Unless both the Giants and Pirates crack simultaneously, which seems highly improbable, the Pirates, for example, could win 30 and lose 26 and still get a tie with the Reds if the latter could do no better than win 35 and lose 19. The Giants could achieve the same result by winning 31 and losing 22.

The Reds, to be frank, do not seem to be the ball club to carry on a sustained winning streak such as the present schedule demands. They are getting the best pitching in baseball, with the possible exception of the Athletics, but unlike the latter, their punch is just a gesture.

French Coal Production

Since 1919 production of coal in France has increased steadily and in 1924 reached a new level, though still inferior to the output of France and Lorraine, combined, in 1918. The total of 44,855,000 metric tons in 1924 was an increase over 1923 of 17 per cent and was 10 per cent above the 1918 output of France before the return of Lorraine. This increase in output for 1924 was made possible largely by the further reconstruction in the devastated mining area.

In and Out

"Anyone knows enough to go into the hardware business," said a farmer in the fall of 1923. "But not every one knows enough to stay in the hardware business," said the same farmer to the sheriff in the fall of 1924.—Editorial in Good Hardware.

Ford Purchases Airplane Plant

By Telegram to The Freeman.
Detroit, Mich., Aug. 7.—Henry Ford entered the ranks of the airplane manufacturers today after less than four months' operation of his own private interplant air freight service. Outright purchase of the plant and assets of the Stout Metal Airplane Company, was announced by Henry and Edsel Ford.

The price paid was par, plus 25 per cent, it is understood. William B. Stout, president, alone remains out of the 50 original stockholders, with an interest in the new company formed as a division of the Ford Motor Company. The total consideration is said to be more than $1,000,000.

Financial and Commercial

By Telegram to The Freeman.
New York, Aug. 7.—The stock market retained its strong tone today. U. S. Steel moved up more than two points to 122. The usual week end tardiness was seen in a number of the active speculative favorites and a good bulk of transactions represented little more than the evening up of the accounts. Speculation in the public utility stocks was renewed when rumors of new consolidations reached the financial district. A further decline was noted in prices of refined oil products in important consuming centers, but elsewhere commodity markets were steady.

Chesapeake and Ohio was a prominent leader in the railroad stocks with a two point gain to around 99. New York Central, Erie, Atchafalaya and Wabash issues were also strong. Copper stocks sold higher when the price of copper metal moved up another ¼ to 14½. American Smelting, Kennecott and Anaconda sold about a point higher on the average. The specialty stocks also moved into prominence as the session advanced.

New York Canners moved up nearly three points. Glidden sold up two points higher on official announcement that the stock would be placed on a $2 dividend basis in October.

Veteran Editor Dying

By Telegram to The Freeman.
Washington, Aug. 7.—John Temple Graves, veteran editor, orator and publicist, was "barely alive" this morning at his home here.

Rare American Stamps

The first official use of postage stamps was sanctioned by act of congress of March, 1847. On July 1, 1847, the first stamps were issued. They were a 3-cent and a 10-cent stamp. The 3-cent stamp bore the likeness of Franklin, while the 10-cent stamp bore the portrait of Washington from Stuart's painting. Professional stamps were issued prior to 1847 and were used by postmasters at some of the larger offices. They consisted of an impression placed upon letters with impressions such as "paid 5c." The name of the office, etc. These stamps are very rare and are among the most valuable known.

LOCAL DEATH RECORD.

Recent Deaths and Funerals of Persons in This Vicinity.
The funeral services for Peter C. Osterhout of 115 Main street, were held at 3 o'clock, Thursday afternoon, at the Reformed Church of the Comforter, and were very largely attended, the church being filled. Bankers, merchants, contractors, artisans and men from all walks of life who had known Mr. Osterhout because of his good citizenship and his integrity during his over half century as a carpenter and builder came to pay their last tribute of respect to a man whom they honored during life. The Rev. Wilbur F. Stone, pastor of the church, officiated at the services, and paid a just tribute to Mr. Osterhout as a Christian who had devoted much interest and effort since the organization of the church to its work. During the service the church choir sang. Interment was in Whitwick Cemetery.

Mary Louise's Age Fixed at 21

By Telegram to The Freeman.
New York, Aug. 7.—"Sybil Mulen is a very charming little girl but I certainly have no intention of adopting her. She is just one of the 12,000 to me."
Edward W. Browning, the tall, debonair, 30 year old millionaire real estate operator whose adoption of pretty Mary Louise Spas has drawn a swirl of public criticism about his head, made this statement today.

While Browning and Mary Louise were sympathizing with each other, Bird S. Coler, commissioner of public welfare, prepared to throw a bombshell into the path of the Cinderella couple. He was to confer this afternoon with District Attorney Richard S. Newcomb of Queens to consider the circumstances attending the adoption of the demure little Mary Louise, who says she is 16 but who neighbors declared is 21.

Mary Louise did not want to talk about Emil Heselak, 20 year old steamfitter's helper, who said he was to have married Mary June 16, last. Browning, however, said he wouldn't oppose Mary's marrying Emil "if he was the right kind of a man." In fact, he'd help him—start him up in business, providing he "stood scrutiny."

Mary Louise's age was definitely fixed at 21 today. Bird S. Coler, welfare commissioner, made public a communication from the department of education setting forth that the girl on two school registrations gave the date of her birth as July 31, 1904.

Opportunity and Thrift Are Brothers in Blood

One of the benefits of thrift comes from the fact that often the possession of a small amount of money at the right time marks the turning point in the possessor's life.

The world is full of instances of those who have found the way to great success when, through thrift, they were able to take advantage of some special opportunity for self-advancement.

Disraeli said: "The great secret of success in life is to be ready when your opportunity comes."

To those who are drifting along from day to day without getting ahead and apparently making no effort to do so, this advice should come with special force. Money should not be saved merely with the object of being ready for some great opportunity in life, but the fact remains that without saving and getting ahead there will never be opportunity for any progress whatever.

It also is to be borne in mind that opportunities for personal progress often come to those who, because of their thrifty habits, have gained the good will and confidence of some person who is in a position greatly to advance their interests.

Thrift brings its rewards in countless ways aside from the mere piling up of savings. One of these is the development of industry. The thrifty man is well organized; he is of the type that inspires confidence upon the part of the employees and executives who are looking for men to fill important posts.

The man who is thrifty can rest assured he is making no mistake.

It may not be possible for him to look ahead today and see the advantages that will come from today's sacrifices. But the day of reward will arrive.

Thrift and opportunity are always on friendly terms.

Boomerang Proof

Robert W. Chambers, the only novelist in the world to pay a five-figure income tax, said at a luncheon in New York:

"Novelists are conceited. Some people declare they are modest but—Well, any such declaration as that reminds me of two pretty girls who reclined in their bathing suits on the warm sands of Palm beach.

"So you're flirting with young Scrawler Scribbles, the novelist, are you?" said the first pretty girl. "I don't see how you can stand him—such a conceited duffer as he is!"

"Conceited?" said the second pretty girl. "Conceited your grandmother! Scrawler Scribbles is as modest as a woodland violet. Why, I asked him last night who was the greatest living novelist in America, and he blushed, and bit his lip, and murmured confusedly that it wasn't for him to say!"

Festival of Old Music

A festival of the chamber music of the Sixteenth, Seventeenth and Eighteenth centuries is being arranged for August at Haslemere, England, where instruments will be used representing those of olden times. The festival is to be staged by Arnold Dolmetsch, who with other members of his family and pupils will play numerous rare instruments virtually unknown to the average music lover of today. The lute, the recorder, the viol, the virginal, the viola d'amore, the harpsichord, the clavicembal, referred to by Rossetti as the "siren sweet symphonies" will be used in rendering the music of the old masters. English music of "the golden age period" (the Sixteenth and Seventeenth centuries) will have a prominent place on the festival program.

Dog's Character

One often hears it said that a dog acquires the character of its owner. It is true that bad treatment will soon dispose of a dog that was originally good-natured, and it is equally certain that good and wise treatment will bring out all the best in a dog's nature; but neither bad nor good treatment can change the original character of the dog.

GOOD ROADS

HARD ROADS SAVE AUTOMOBILE WEAR

The owner of an automobile would no doubt be greatly astonished by the result if he were to stop and figure how much he was losing because of bad roads, and how much he would save if he could always drive on hard roads. Take gasoline, for instance. You can go 12½ miles on a gallon of gasoline on a bad road, and 15 on a hard surface. At 25 cents a gallon, and an average of 20 miles a day, or 6,000 miles in the ten months' touring season, you are losing $20 a year if you travel on bad roads.

On the question of tires, one tire manufacturing company has the following to say:

"While 5,000 miles which we guarantee is generally speaking the most that can be hoped for on ordinary roads, it is not too much to say that the average tire will give nearly twice this amount on roads such as they are building in California. In other words, 10,000 miles will be nearer the average life of a good tire when the roads are what they should be, while only half of that mileage is now the average of good luck on the present condition of roads."

On the subject of depreciation on your machine, a leading auto truck manufacturer says:

We know, as a general rule, that an average of 33-1/3 per cent of the potential economic life of a motor truck is abstracted by the pounding and crystallization augmenting effects of poor roads as against hard roads."

Cut the tire and depreciation figures into two or three parts, if you wish, and the result will still astonish you. Add to the loss on gasoline, and depreciation, the loss of oil, and then add to that the value added to your machine by enlarging your area of traffic, and the comfort and pleasure which you will derive—all from the smooth road. Finally, figure the number of automobile owners in your county or state, and when you get through you will appreciate that this loss would build hundreds of miles of hard roads every year.

Ambitious Road Program for All National Parks

The United States Department of the Interior announces an ambitious program for development of highways in 17 national parks of the United States and Alaska. An appropriation of $7,500,000 has been authorized, of which $2,500,000 are now available, which will be distributed and used in the various parks, including Glacier National park in Montana; Yosemite National park, California; Mount Rainier National park, Washington; Crater Lake National park, Oregon; Sequoia National park, Arizona; Rocky Mountain National park, Colorado; Yellowstone in Montana, Wyoming and Idaho; Hawaii National park; Mount McKinley National park, Alaska; Lassen National park in California; Hot Springs National park in Arkansas; Lafayette National park in Maine; Mesa Verde National park in Colorado; Platt National park in Oklahoma; Wind Cave National park in South Dakota; and Pinnacles National monument in California.

Among the improvements to be made are the following: A complete trans-mountain road across Glacier National park; paving in the Yosemite; bridges for Mount Rainier; completion of the Fall River road in Rocky Mountain park to an elevation of 11,707 feet. Yellowstone National park receives only a small allotment for the reason that it has 856 miles of completed excellent roads.

Smaller Part of Roads

Carry Most of Traffic
A very large portion of the highway traffic of the country is carried by a rather small percentage of the roads, according to the bureau of public roads of the United States Department of Agriculture. A detailed traffic survey in Maine, conducted by the bureau in co-operation with the Maine state highway commission, shows that the primary system of the state, consisting of only 1.1 per cent of the total mileage, carries 53.4 per cent of the traffic in the state. Furthermore, 13.4 per cent of the primary system carries 38.7 per cent of the traffic on the system. From this it follows that, with respect to the entire highway system of the state, 1-3 per cent of the total mileage serves more than a fifth of the traffic as measured in vehicle miles.

The important roads of the country are embraced in the federal aid highway system and the state system upon which it has been laid down, and it is the improvement of these roads for which the country has the greatest need.

Cost of Good Roads

In England a Mile
A cost of $325,000 a mile is estimated for a 2½-mile highway to be built in England between London and Liverpool. The road is to have no cross roads and will pass through no towns. It will be double, with a roadway for slow traffic and one for fast travel, with no speed limit on the section for fast going. A toll equivalent to a cent a ton per mile will be charged.

Famous Irishwoman

Fair Geraldine, a noted character in England in the Sixteenth century, was the Irish Lady Elizabeth Fitzgerald, daughter of General Fitzgerald, ninth earl of Kildare. She was afterward the wife of earl of Lincoln.

Wiswall for Convention Nominations

make rules.—The rules must be made by the county committee.
Judge Cunningham changed his motion so as to suggest the change indicated and his motion was carried unanimously.

A number of changes in county committee members were made on the call of the roll.

Judicial Convention Delegates.
The following delegates and alternates were elected to attend the judicial district convention:
Delegates—Philip Elting, William D. Cunningham, Charles W. Walton, George F. Kaufman, Robert G. Groves.

Alternates—DeWitt W. Ostrander, Floyd W. Powell, Frederick Stephan, Jr., Newton H. Rossenden, Andrew W. Lent.

Davis for Assemblyman.
On the call for nominations for assemblyman, several delegates named Assemblyman Millard Davis, and the secretary was directed to cast the unanimous vote of the convention for him. Mr. DuBois of New Paltz and Mr. Davis of Ulster were appointed to escort Assemblyman Davis before the convention.

What He Learned.

Mr. Davis thanked the convention. "I have been one year in Albany, with the help of you people," he said, "and I very much enjoyed it. It has been said by a newspaper in Ulster county that your assemblyman must have kept his light under a bushel because they saw no unusual brilliancy at Albany.

"That is probably true, because it takes a year for an assemblyman to learn about his government and to find out who is governor, and it takes him another year to get in shape to fight.

"In Albany I learned two things. The first was that the man who is leader of Ulster county is looked on throughout the state as a wise and thoroughly honest Republican leader. (Applause.)

"The second thing I learned was that a first year man in Albany has about all he can do if he keeps his mouth shut and votes somewhere near right.

"That is the result of my first year's work.

"If I am biased at Albany, it is in favor of the farmers. I am a farmer. The farmers of Ulster county have had the hardest kind of work of any class to keep on their farms and make a living. All I am asking for the farmer is that the business men take a little more interest in farming affairs.

"Without asking for any special legislation now, we do want a little helpful interest in what we are trying to do to help ourselves and get out of the despondency which has wrapped us for several years. I have no legislation to propose and I hope none will be necessary." (Applause.)

Adjournment was taken until 2:30 o'clock and the delegates meanwhile dined at the Stayresant Hotel.

Chappies Play Here Tonight

Chapple Johnson's All Stars have given the Colonials more trouble than any other team this season. The club has been pitted against the locals five times and four times in a row the colored team managed to trim the locals. It wasn't till the fifth time that the Colonials could finally give the All Stars their first trimming. Tonight will make the sixth game in this series and this game will mean a great deal to the Robins-Deegan outfit, when they face this crack colored team at the Fair Grounds.

Either Carter or Cooper will likely be on the mound against the locals tonight with Carter as the strongest possibility as the locals have found him the hardest twirler on Chapple's staff in their series with this up-state club.

Paul Kinney or Clyde Russell have both had four days of rest since the Sunday double header and either is likely to be given the task of tossing them over to the colored club. Kinney was on the mound for the locals when they gave the All Stars their only trimming.

Valley Managers Talk Basketball

Poughkeepsie may have a real professional league basketball team this winter if the plans of Jack Garland of Poughkeepsie survive as a deal is now under way to shift the old Kingston team, composed of Powers, Justa, Borgmann and others to Poughkeepsie to represent a club of that place in the Metropolitan League. Garland plans to hold a conference soon with Frank Morgenweck, manager of the Kingston club in hopes of shifting the league franchise to that city.

In Middletown a league is also being formed with Orange, Sullivan and Ulster counties represented. A. P. Mullen, manager of the Battery D Middletown team, which had such a successful season last winter has received word from R. L. Wilson former manager of the old Chester Hambletonians who states that the Chester lads are anxious to form such an organization and believes that it would go over with the fans of the three counties.

There would be six possible teams in Orange county to compete—Battery D, Port Jervis, Chester, Warwick, Newburgh and Monroe. In Sullivan county there would be Liberty, Roscoe and Monticello to pick from, and in Ulster county, Ellenville and Kingston. This would be 11 squads in all, a good-sized league, if they all consent to the arrangements. It has also been suggested that an eight team league be formed, and that the first eight towns to signify their intention of joining be considered for the league.

Colonials Again Beat Port Jervis

After having such an easy time of it Wednesday in beating the Port Jervis outfit the Colonials were looking for another easy snap but they barely missed breaking even with the Port Jervis team as it took the locals eleven innings before they could break away with a 2 to 1 victory from the Orange county tribe.

A home run by Kelly in the final frame gave the locals the game. The local outfielder sent out a blow which should have been worth two bases but it went for four sacks and was the means of seizing the ball game when the Port Jervis outfielders lost track of the ball in the grass.

Jack Robins dented his job behind the plate early in the game for the pitching position, figuring on saving the regular twirlers for the hard battles on the locals' schedule. Robins performed well giving the enemy only five hits and one run but when they tied the score in the sixth frame Jack took his place behind the bat and Maury McDermott took to the mound. Kelly who had been receiving them for Jack then shifted out to center field while Paul Kinney came in on first base.

The Colonials didn't make use of the score board till the sixth inning when Kelly hit for two bases and was brought in on McDermott's long single to right field.

Both teams remained silent until the eleventh frame when Kelly traced the bases with a circuit. McDermott managed to keep the hits well scattered which gave the Port Jervis team little chance to score.
